The commission discussed logistics for setting up the series, including duration, frequency, location, and topics. Teresa suggested May for Senior Month for speakers. Sud subject proposed. Proposed an hour session, 45-minute lecture with 15-minute Q&A, or 90-minute block with similar structure. Saturday morning series proposed to begin in March or April. The Commission proposed a booth at the farmers' market to propose a speaker series. The series will likely start with monthly sessions, and with interest, increase sessions. The first year could be considered a pilot program. Promotional content and strategy are needed for planning and commission members to get the word out in different formats. Certificate or program completion recognition. First order of business: determining a location; Teresa will look for availability at the Costick Center for Saturday mornings in Spring of 2026.
