Be Prepared: Farmington Hills Fire Department Offers Community
CPR Training on Nov. 20 Ahead of Busy Holiday Season

Participants will also learn vital AED and Stop the Bleed tourniquet skills

FARMINGTON HILLS, Mich. (Oct. 27, 2025) – The Farmington Hills Fire Department and the City of Farmington Hills Emergency Preparedness Commission are offering an American Heart Association Heartsaver® class to train members of the public in CPR, AED and Stop the Bleed tourniquet skills on Thursday, Nov. 20, just in time for the busy holiday. The course is designed for everyone, including people with little to no medical training. Each September is observed nationally as Emergency Preparedness Month to encourage preparation for disasters and emergencies, such as incidents of cardiac arrest.

“We know every second counts when it comes to cardiac arrest and traumatic injuries,” said Farmington Hills Fire Chief Jon Unruh. “Thanks to community members who participate in this lifesaving course, and our highly skilled EMTs and paramedics, Farmington Hills has one of the highest cardiac arrest survival rates in the United States.”

According to the American Heart Association, more than 350-thousand cardiac arrests occur outside of the hospital each year. Bystander intervention can double, or even triple, a person’s chance of survival if CPR is administered immediately after cardiac arrest. Through this vital training, participants will learn how to recognize cardiac arrest and the actions to take while awaiting first responder arrival.

The class, open to individuals ages 12 and up, will be held from 5:30-10 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 20 at Fire Station #4 located at 28711 Drake Road. Children under 18-years-old must register with a parent or guardian. Registration fees are $10 for Farmington Hills and Farmington residents, and $20 for non-residents. An additional $20 fee, regardless of residency, is required for the American Heart Association Certificate of Training, which is valid for two years and can be printed or accessed online. Participants must be physically capable of kneeling on the floor and performing continuous chest compressions using their arms and hands.

To ensure an optimal student-instructor ratio, registration fees are due Thursday, Nov. 13, one week prior to the class, and are non-refundable. To register, or for more information, contact FDevents@FHgov.com.
