EMERGENCY PREPAREDNESS COMMISSION TIP OF THE MONTH

The following Tip of the Month was read by Tim Tutak, EPC member:

CITY OF FARMINGTON and FARMINGTON HILLS
EMERGENCY PREPAREDNESS COMMISSION
Tip of the Month
MAY

Goal for May: Community Preparedness

Disasters/emergencies can happen at any area or time. If you are traveling or away from home do you know a safe place? Have you reviewed the emergency procedures for your family members with their work or school? This is important to know as during an event you could be separated from your loved ones, but may be more calm if you know and they know what the plan is not matter where you're at.

Work / School / Activities:

Review your families work and school emergency procedures that are appropriate to be shared. Consider activities or events you normally attend such as extracurricular activities. Talk to administrators about those plans if you have questions.

- Know evacuation routes and shelter locations
- Ask if they practice
- Identify if the facility has an emergency kit
- Know if they have an AED

Assisting those who count on you:

Creating an emergency kit for people who may not be able to do it themselves or who you support can help in a disaster. Make sure the kit includes contact information, 3-7 days of medication, medication list (pharmacy and physician information), medical conditions, meeting location, personal identification information, a small amount of cash, and emergency contact information.

Examples

- Students who are abroad, staying away from home(college/prep schools)
- Dependent loved ones living on their own

SUSTAINABLE FARMINGTON HILLS TIP OF THE MONTH

The following Tip of the Month was read by Councilmember Steckloff:

Sustainable Farmington Hills
Tip of the Month
May, 2019

Worldwide bee populations are on the decline, including the honey bee and many of our wild native bees. Plants need bees to pollinate, making bees indispensable pollinators of most ecosystems. There are 369,000 flowering plant species, and 90% of them are dependent on insect pollination (earthday.org). So how can you help these pollinators thrive and grow here in Farmington Hills this spring?

1. Plant pollinator friendly plants. Consider using native plants that are well-adapted to your local environment. They don't require much water or care and they also have deep root structures, which help prevent erosion of soil in your yard.
2. Many common pesticides interfere with pollinators' neurology, and pollinators can carry these chemicals back to their hives with them, effecting the whole population. Ironically, if treated with pesticides, the most perfect-looking gardens can have very negative impacts on our ecosystem.
